

This is a collection of stories and poems made by the teen telepaths of Ann Arbor, Michigan. Haven't we all wished that people could just read our minds? Or take our confusing feelings and turn them into poetry and prose? This chapbook is what happens when we open our minds and invite the reader in. To be a telepath is to be alone, but to communicate telepathically is to never be alone.

We Only
Communicate
Telepathically